

10th May Sunday Rune and Card Reading

This week having been immersed in Beltane Meditations with strong connections to the Earth and to the changing of the seasons, growth and fertility, I was called to bring this energy into the Sunday Readings.

These readings certainly reflected the profound change and transitions that we are experiencing in our current circumstances.

Reading no. 1 – Sowing Seeds

In this reading I was drawn to connect with the energy of Seeds, in this instance some Bee friendly seeds that I was gifted earlier this year. The energy spoke of new beginnings, of entering a dreamtime and initiating steps in the creation of a new phase of growth and fertility.

Reading no. 2 – Seedlings Emerging

As seedlings push through and begin their emergence into life, with strong connections to manifestation, the energy of the seedlings spoke of possibilities unfolding and of seeds previously sown finding their roots and becoming established.

As I write this, I am reminded that the words ‘Emerge’ and ‘Emergency’ come from the same Latin source. Perhaps it is within Emergency that we can find our greatest potential to re-establish ourselves and to put down roots that create a new and sustainable future.

Reading no. 3 – The Horse Chestnut Tree

The energy of this little tree, transplanted in order to save its life, spoke of durability and resilience, and the energy to re-find ourselves through new direction, even in the face of disruptions.
