

21st June Sunday Rune and Card Reading

This week we are joined by the vibrant and extraordinary energy of three different plants.

Reading no. 1 – Mint

In the first reading we connect with the energy of Mint.

Represented by the element of air and the planet Venus, Mint has been long known to carry many medicinal properties, however there is a little bit more to the energy of Mint.

In terms of herbal magic, Mint is said to drive away evil spirits and repel negativity. It increases our personal strength and resilience and so is a source of empowerment, enabling us to overcome difficulties and restrictions, through the discovery of inner courage and strength.

Mint is also carried to prevent bad luck and obstacles on our journey.

Reading no. 2 - Fennel

In our second reading we are joined by the energy of Fennel.

This very beautiful herb is associated with the element of air and the planet Mercury. Carried within this combination, Fennel is said to support us in developing clear speaking. If you are needing to become eloquent and to convince someone, then this is the herb to carry.

Fennel is said to strengthen our mind and our memory enabling us to hold onto information and draw upon it with clarity as and when it needs to be expressed. This is definitely a herb that gives us a voice.

Reading no. 3 – Aloe

In reading number three we are joined by the feminine energy of Aloe.

This remarkable plant is known to have a significant number of healing qualities and has been used medicinally and in many natural beauty products.

Connecting with the energy of both the Moon and Venus, Aloe is said to guard against accidents and misfortune, and to support any spells that are associated with love and beauty or call upon the lunar energy for support.

What an amazing little plant to connect with on this day of the New Moon Eclipse in beautiful feminine cancer!
