

November 15th Sunday Rune and Card Reading

Reading no 1 - Angelite.

Angelite is an extremely high vibrational stone that just emanates peace and tranquillity. Attuning us to a higher frequency it is said to create a direct channel of communication with our guardian angels and has been known to initiate and stimulate the emergence of psychic gifts and mediumship.

It is also used in healing to facilitate the rebirthing process by opening the way for spiritual inspiration, creating opportunity for psychic channelling linking us directly with a higher vision and a greater universal consciousness.

Reading no 2 – Pink Calcite.

Calcites are without question some of the greatest healers of the Crystal family. Known as an amplifier of energy, Pink Calcite is a powerful bringer of gentleness that encourages self-love and the love of others and all of life. For me its energy seems to radiate and embody compassion creating a deep connection that overrides the ego enabling us to relate with others Soul to Soul.

If you are fired up about something and wish to bring love into your word's, thoughts and actions, then this is a magnificent crystal to carry with you.

It is also said to remove fear and lessen anxiety, soothing away tension.

Reading no 3 - Aragonite. The Earth Goddess Speaks!

Aragonite is known as a stone of strength and support. It is said to align with the Earth Goddess, keeping us anchored and grounded, particularly during times of transition and sudden change.

Said to nurture and foster the truth within any situation, it is a crystal that really connects us to the here and now!

Personally, I find this powerful little crystal cluster radiates a sense of earthiness, bringing me a sense of safety, generating feelings of reliability and consistency, even at those times when the world around me is feeling unsettled.

I love this Crystal!
